WHO NEEDS THIS COURSE?

This highly interactive two-day in-person training course is designed for leaders who have completed New Quest Leadership & Management Skills Training and who want to develop and enhance their capacities to drive meaningful bottom-line departmental and organizational performance.

You are a leader who recognizes that:

- ✓ Strategic thinking is essential for success: You need to master the art of strategic thinking to elevate yourself from day-to-day operations, focusing on goal setting, effective delegation, and driving impactful results.
- ✓ Influence and communication are key leadership skills: You want to refine your ability to communicate persuasively, build influence, and inspire others to achieve organizational goals.
- ✓ Understanding your conflict style is crucial: Through the Thomas-Kilmann Conflict Mode Instrument (TKI) Assessment, you'll recognize its impact on your leadership effectiveness and team dynamics,
- ✓ Adaptability in uncertain times is a must: You aim to develop resilience and foster a culture of innovation to navigate today's rapidly changing business landscape.
- ✓ Continuous growth drives performance: You're committed to further developing your leadership capacities to enhance both departmental and organizational bottom-line performance.

"A number of our leaders have seen excellent results from New Quest leadership courses. The focus on accountability and communication has been key to our leaders' success. Shane's facilitation ensures engaging and relevant content."
